CITY OF WAUSAU HAS AN UN-COMPLETED DAM.

STATE MILLERS TO MEET

Program of Much Interest Is to Be Given During Coming Week.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Wausau, Wis., Oct. 6.—Nothing having been heard from George M.
Pantner, contractor for the dam of the Marathon Paper Mills company, who left the city ostensibly for Chicago ten days ago, the company has taken charge of the work. Pantner is reported to have lost some $7,000 in the job here as far as he had gone and it is believed in financial trouble. Jobs have already been placed on some of the machinery by creditors.

Millers' Testimony
The Wisconsin State Millers' association will hold its next quarterly meeting in Wausau on Tuesday, Oct.
21. The program and other arrangements have been prepared. The Hotel Bellevue will be the headquarters of the convention body. The Wausau club has tendered the free use of its rooms to the visiting millers. The program is as follows:

Routine Business; The Cleaning and Milling in Transit of Grain; The Status of the Flour Bleaching Question; The Proper Branding of Rye
Flour; Feeding Stuff Law; Milling Conditions—General Discussion.

The meeting will convene about 1 o'clock p. m. and it is intended to hold an evening session. If the weather be favorable an auto ride will be given the visiting members in the forenoon. The subjects to be discussed at this meeting are all live and leading questions and a large attendance is expected. Millers from Marshallfield, Merrill, Grand Rapids, Stevens Point, Amherst, Plover, Oak-Kosh, Waupun, Neenah, Appleton, De-
Pere, Green Bay, Portage, Galesville, Ashland, Menomonie, Manitowish, Marquette and New London, are expected to be present at this convention, as well as others from the cities in the central part of the state.

J. P. Horton of Grand Rapids is president of the association; H. E.

Mrs. Lou LaPointe of Moon, town of Bellevue, whose husband, Thomas LaPointe, is serving a sixty-day sentence in the county jail in default of a peace bond of $200, has started an action for absolute divorce, the papers in the action being served on the defendant and the divorce counsel yesterday afternoon. Cruelly and neglectful to provide for her and her family of six children are given as the grounds for the divorce. One instance in point is that which occurred a little over a week ago, when the defendant is said to have come home in an intoxicated condition, threatened to kill his wife and then set fire to the house, which was destroyed. They were married November 11, 1889.

Given Two Years.
Joseph Hoffman of the town of Maine, pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary before Judge Marchetti in municipal court and was sentenced to two years in the reformatory at Green Bay. He was taken to that institution this morning. The specific charge against the defendant was that of entering his father's house on Merrill avenue and stealing $100, $70 of which was recovered when he was arrested.

Closed Sunday.
The clerks' union at its meeting last evening decided to prosecute every merchant who keeps his place open on Sunday. There are about ten in the city according to the officers of the union who obey the Sunday closing law. They have been notified by the union several times but they have given the warning little or no attention, say the officers. It has therefore been decided to resort to law. They will be given one more chance, which will be next Sunday, to comply with the law, and those who are found open on that day will be marked for prosecution.
The first action is to be begun shortly after next Sunday.

A MADISON AUTO PARTY MET, WITH MISAP THIS MORNING

While One Was Injured It Might Have Been a Bad
Smash-up.

Just as an automobile containing Frank Burton, his mother and sister, Mrs. Patti and a small child, reached the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets going east this morning, the left rear wheel of the machine came off and the car slewed completely around before stopped. The accident was due to the failure to put in place the counter pin on the wheel which builds the nut in place and consequently the wheel slipped off. The car was removed to Pearson's garage and repaired and the party continued their trip to Harvard. J. W. Brown, who was walking across the street, narrowly escaped being hit by the car as it whirled around, as did also a team which was passing. The accident attracted considerable attention.

blocks of streets on the south side, ers who say their backyards have been ruined, has prompted the council to pass an ordinance drafted requiring property owners to trim shade trees mitting the street commissioner to do the work where property owners neglect it and charge to the property.

A plan for cement curbs and gutters on all streets will also be adopted by the city.

Career of Harvard's New President in Brief.
• Abbott Lawrence Lowell born in Boston, Dec. 13, 1864.
• Graduated from Harvard College in 1877, and from Harvard Law School in 1880.
• Published "Essays on Government" in 1880.
• Wrote "Governments and Parties in Continental Europe" in 1896.
• Member of the Boston school board from 1896 to 1898.
• Appointed a lecturer on government at Harvard in 1897.
• Elected permanent professor in science of government at Harvard in 1900.
• Published "Influence of Party Liaison in England and America" in 1902.
• Published "The Government of England" in 1908.
• Elected to succeed President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard in January, 1909.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 6.—Harvard University today installed Abbott Lawrence Lowell as president of that institution, succeeding Dr. Charles W.
Eliot who resigned last year. Traditional forms and ceremonies that have been used at rare intervals for nearly three centuries past, whenever it has been necessary to induce into office a new president of Harvard, were followed. In a large extent, at today's inauguration.

The ceremonies were witnessed by nearly five hundred distinguished representatives of universities, colleges and learned societies in all parts of the civilized world. More than one hundred of the leading teachers and university officials of the United States were represented by their presidents, the gathering of these dignitaries being the largest of its kind that has ever taken place in this country. Some of the most famous savants of the Old World were in attendance as representatives of the principal universities in Great Britain, Germany, France and other European countries. The presence of these distinguished delegates wearing academic dress and the vari-colored hoods denoting distinction given by universities and colleges all over the world gave added brilliance to the scene.

The inauguration ceremonies took place under the historic elm in the college yard, where a platform and seats had been arranged for the delegates and visitors. In addition to the delegates already mentioned there were present about 300 officers of Harvard University, an alumni chorus of 150 members, Governor Draper and his staff in full uniform, the mayors of Cambridge and Boston, and a considerable number of distinguished individuals, many of whom are holders of honorary degrees of Harvard. Stretching from the front of platform in both directions across the yard were seats for the students and graduates, thousands of whom were present and all garbed in black academic regalia.

The inauguration ceremonies were of a simple but very impressive character. One of the important features was a tremendous outburst of cheering that greeted the appearance on the platform of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, who outlined the duties of the famous institution for forty years.

The exercises of the day began shortly after 10 o'clock, when President Lowell, the fellows, overseers, members of the faculty, delegates and nobles assembled at Phillips Brooks house and marched in procession to the platform in front of University Hall. When all had been seated Sheriff Fairbank of Middlesex County, wearing his official uniform and carrying his sword, called the assembly to order. The singing of "Lau-dus Dominum" by the alumni chorus was followed by an offering of prayer.

The next event was the delivery of a Latin address of a congratulatory character by a representative of the senior class. President Lowell was then formally inducted into office by the president of the board of over-sors, Hon. John D. Long. This feature of the ceremony included the presentation to President Lowell of the alumni ceremonial keys of the university, the original charter of 1640 and the official seal of Harvard.

At the conclusion of these ceremonies
President Lowell delivered his inaugural address, in which he reviewed at length the history of Harvard, its present needs, and outlined the policy of his administration.

The conferring of honorary degrees, a song by the alumni chorus, and the benediction brought the exercises to a close. The participants and the distinguished guests, nearly one thousand in number, then adjourned to Harvard Union for luncheon.

PLAN REDEDICATION OF THE DORMITORY

Trustees of Evansville Seminary Plan Exercises for Remodeling of Building.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Evansville, Oct. 5.—The trustees of the seminary are planning to make the rededication of the dormitory an eventful occasion, the date of which has not as yet been definitely decided but will probably occur during the third week in October. Rev. A. L. Whitcomb will preach the dedicatory sermon and it is hoped President Van Hise will be able to be here and speak. It is also hoped that it will be possible for many of the former pupils and old students to be here and take part in the program. A. S. Hink will speak in behalf of the students and those having the affair in charge will make an effort to get a number of those who contributed toward the building fund to give short talks.

Choral Union Meetings. The Choral Union held their first meeting of the season last evening at which time it was decided to hold their meetings in the Seminary chapel every Monday evening. At present they are working on music to be given at the rededication of the seminary dormitory and after that will devote their time on Dudley Buck's "Triumphal Hymn" which they expect to present to the public just before the holidays.

W. R. C. Entertainment. The Woman's Relief Corps have engaged Major R. H. Henderson, the original drummer boy of the Rappahannock and his son, J. C. Henderson, the most wonderful drummer and after in the world, to give an entertainment here on Thursday evening, October 21, in Magee's opera house. These gentlemen will be assisted by local talent who will give four or five numbers of the program. Major Henderson will bring to Evansville the drum presented to him by Horace Greeley in 1862, after the battle of Fredericksburg; the Garfield and Arthur drum sticks of 1880; the drum sticks given him by the G. A. R. Post at Honolulu in 1885, and the drum and diamond-studded badge presented to him by the W. R. C. and G. A. R. of the United States at their national encampment in Indianapolis in 1893. The entertainment promises to be very interesting and a treat to those who enjoy music.

Miss Genevieve Devine underwent an operation for appendicitis today at the residence of Dr. C. M. Smith. About the only relative gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphe Harman, Thursday afternoon, to assist them in celebrating the thirtieth anniversary of their wedding. The party was a surprise to the couple who, upon returning home toward evening, found a delicious dinner nearly ready. The company presented Mr. and Mrs. Harman with a large oak rocker and wished them many happy returns of the day.

MOVING-PICTURE TOY

Figures Pass Rapidly and Have the Appearance of Life.

Thanks to a new moving picture toy, it is now possible to have moving pictures at home, though the amusement parlors exhibiting these shows are almost next door to everybody. The toy shown in the illustration consists of a rotary shaft with the disk on one end and a pulley on the other. The disk has two slits at opposite points on its border, and over the pulley wheel is hung a circular band with figures along its circumference. By a handle, in the center the shaft is held so that the slits in the disk are on a level with the eye. This brings the figures on the band within the range of vision through the slits. Both disk and band are made to revolve rapidly, and the swiftly moving figures, glimpsed through the equally swiftly revolving disk, have all the appearance of life, and seem to run and jump about with all the abandon of those seen on the screen of the regulation moving picture show.

DISK AND BAND BOTH REVOLVE.

LINOLEUM IN BLOCKS

Made in Large Pieces and Strips Are Laid Off Top.

A new method of manufacturing linoleum has been invented by a German, who thoughtfully patented his idea in the country, too. In describing this method "W" will consider the design of block, laid diagonally, as in the illustration. Long strips of linoleum, each about 1/2 inch wide, are cut into regular lengths and assembled in a long piece, as shown.

DESIGN THROUGH WHOLE BLOCK.

Pieces of these pieces are then placed side by side, with triangular pieces along the edges, and the whole compressed into a homogeneous block with the design running through the entire mass. This block is then cut from the top of the block, as shown, off a bit of bread, and after the sheets thus obtained have been given a suitable backing they are ready for sale or use. Linoleum made in this way is said to be less likely to crack and break than that made under the old method.

FOR BAKING POTATOES

Tubers Stuck on Spikes and Cook Evenly All Around.

Hereafter the baked potato will be a thing forgotten in well-served houses. The spigot used in well-served houses for the purpose of hanging a tub of water on the wall and the other side the side of the tub, a Massachusetts man has invented a potato-baking utensil which insures an even cooking all around and through to the very heart of the vegetable. This utensil consists of a long metal plate with opposite rows of small pointed incisions, the metal these within having been turned up to form rows of spikes, upon which potatoes are ranged. Baked upon these spigots, the potatoes become thoroughly and uniformly roasted and there is no necessity of turning them from side to side to keep them from becoming scorched in one part. At one end of the bottom plate is a handle piece by which the device may be pushed in and pulled out of the oven without burning the fingers on the hot metal.

NO MORE BURNED SIDES.

Value of Advertising.

A Kansas man is convinced that advertising pays. He advertised for a lost five-dollar bill and a stranger, who had picked one up in the street, read the advertisement and restored the bill to the advertiser. A few days later, while looking over a vest he had had off, the original lost bill was found in a pocket. He says advertising pays 100 per cent.

Don't think you can succeed without advertising. There is no department of your business will show neglect quicker.

Making Money On the Farm

XVIII.—The Vegetable Garden

By C. V. GREGORY,
Author of "Home Course in Modern Agriculture"

A GOOD vegetable garden will produce at least half of the family's living during the summer months, to say nothing of the vegetables that may be canned or stored in the cellar for winter use. Many farmers object to a garden as causing too much work. That is largely because they make it so. The largest item of work is hoeing, and if the garden is properly planned and managed little of that will need to be done. The mistake most often made is in the location of the garden. It is put in a little corner back of the house where there is no room to use horse tools. It is much better to plant a few fruit trees in such a space and locate the garden some place where it can be worked by horsepower.

Securing Early Vegetables.
A south slope is best if early vegetables are wanted. A sandy soil is also a big help in getting things started early, but almost any soil may be made to give good results by draining and manuring. Fall plowing is a necessary step in getting the garden planted early. Then as soon as it is dry enough to work in the spring it should be disked and harrowed until the best possible seed bed is produced.

Earliness is a prime essential in a vegetable garden. One of the main satisfactions in having a garden is in being able to send a mess of peas or a watermelon to the neighbors before they have any of their own. Then, too, the family begins to get hungry for green stuff usually long before there is any for use.

Besides having light, early soil, a south slope and preparing the ground early, there are a number of other devices that can be resorted to, to secure earliness. One of the most important of these is the hotbed. A hotbed costs little, and after its advantages have once been found out by actual trial it is seldom abandoned. The best location for a hotbed is on the south side of a building. It should face the south in order to get the most possible heat from the sun. The main source of heat, however, is fermenting horse manure. A pit may be dug for the manure, but the hotbed will be just as successful if the manure is piled on top of the ground. The pile should be about two feet deep and should be spread out flat and packed tightly. It should extend out about two feet each way from the frame that is to be used. The manure used should have the proper proportions of straw and moisture, so that it will be springy, but not too loose.

It is a fact that much of the success of the hotbed depends on the proper condition of this heat supply. If the manure is too far advanced in decomposition the fermentation will not be active enough to generate the proper amount of heat. On the other hand, if active fermentation has not already begun the necessary heat will not be on hand when it is wanted, and germination and growth will be altogether too slow. A little careful attention to this matter will prevent disappointment.

The frame may be of any desired size, according to the size of glass that can be secured. A storm window makes a good top for a hotbed. If no glass can be secured a sash covered with muslin may be used. The frame should be about eight inches deep in front and fourteen behind. As soon as the manure has been packed in place the frame should be placed upon it and about five inches of rich soil placed inside. The best way to get this soil is to store it away in a barrel the fall before, as you will want it long before the ground thaws in the spring.

Managing the Hotbed.

The proper time to start the hotbed is about six weeks before the ground outside will be ready for planting. About three days after the hotbed has been started the temperature will have become uniform, and the seeds can be planted. They can be planted thickly, since they are to be taken up before they have made much growth. The principal plants started in a hotbed are cabbages and tomatoes. Lettuce and radishes may also be grown in the hotbed and if planted thinly enough may be left there until they are large enough to use. If you want a few early melons or cucumbers the seed may be planted in strawberry boxes of dirt and placed in the hotbed. When the weather is sufficiently warm outside they may be set out in the garden. The roots will make their way through the sides of the box, and three or four weeks will be saved. This is a clever device for treating early sowings of plants which do not bear transplanting. Started in this way early in the season they may be transferred, box and all, into the garden bed and suffer no setback.

During cold nights the hotbed should be covered with straw or old carpets to keep it from getting too cold inside. On sunny days the sash may have to be raised during the warmer part of the day to give ventilation. The plants should be watered in the morning on warm days only to prevent too great a reduction of temperature.

A cold frame is almost as necessary as a hotbed. The plants raised in a hotbed are very tender and are liable to be injured if transplanted directly to the garden. The cold frame is made the same as a hotbed except that no manure is used. After the plants have obtained a good start in the hotbed they should be transferred to the cold frame. The plants in the cold frame are gradually accustomed to the outside air by leaving the sash up for longer periods each day. This transplanting also helps the tomatoes and cabbages in another way, in that it makes them thicker stemmed and causes better root development. A stocky plant of this kind is always a better grower and yielder.

Early Potatoes.

A good way to secure earliness in the case of potatoes is to pack a number in sand somewhere where they will get plenty of light. This should be done a week or so before planting time. As soon as the ground is ready these tubers are set out carefully so as not to break off the sprouts which have started. A week or more in the earliness of the crop can be saved in this way. The early potatoes may be planted rather shallow and a thick coating of straw placed between the rows. On nights when there is danger of freezing, the plants can be covered with straw. No cultivation will be necessary, since the straw will keep the weeds down and conserve moisture. When digging time comes the straw can be thrown back and the potatoes will be found on top of the ground, or nearly so. Of course this plan is not practicable except for a few rows of the earliest potatoes.

Rhubarb and Asparagus.

Another method of securing early vegetables is by the use of perennials, or those which come up from the roots of each year. The most important of these are asparagus and rhubarb. Asparagus is one of the most delicious vegetables that can be grown, and it fills in a space in the spring when there is nothing else available. Rhubarb comes nearer to being a fruit, making appetizing sauce and pie.

In starting an asparagus bed the land should be manured heavily and plowed deeply. One year old plants grown from seed should be planted four inches deep and a foot apart in rows three feet apart. The early spring treatment of the asparagus bed consists in giving it a thorough disk. After the cutting season is over a liberal coating of manure should be scattered between the rows. The stalks should be cut in the fall before the berries are fully ripe to keep the bed from becoming filled with seedlings. Asparagus cannot be cut much before it is three years old. Rhubarb is easily grown from roots planted around in any out of the way corner and kept well mulched and manured.

In planting the garden those plants which have the same habits of growth should be put together. The early crops should also be bunched as much as possible. In some cases an early crop may be got out of the way in time to put a later one on the same ground.

Cultivation.

The garden should be laid out in long rows and as much of the cultivation as possible done with a horse cultivator. A one horse walking cultivator is best for this work. A wheel hoe to get close to the plants and into the corners is a valuable addition to the equipment. As a last resort a hand hoe may have to be used once in awhile to get the weeds out of the row. Changing the garden to a new place every few years is a big help in keeping weeds in check. If the garden is put on clean soil in the first place and few weeds are allowed to go to seed the labor problem will be greatly simplified.

Insects.

Of all the insects that attack garden crops the one that probably causes the most trouble is the striped cucumber beetle. A practice often followed where but a few hills of vine crops are grown is to cover the young plants with a frame of mosquito netting. A better plan is to knock the beetles to the ground by a slight blow and kill each one with a drop of kerosene. Sprinkling the plants with pepper, tobacco dust or air slaked lime will help some.

Paris green, applied at the rate of one pound to a hundred gallons of water, with four pounds of freshly slaked lime added to prevent injury to the foliage, is one of the best remedies for cabbage worms and most of the other insects that infest garden crops. The big tomato worms can best be killed by knocking them off into a can of kerosene.

When you let a package go out of your store without an enclosure soliciting further purchases and naming on one or more articles—preferably ones you have cost your profit account something.

TROLLEY SETS THE SIGNALS.

System Invented by Indiana Man That Operates Automatically as Car Passes Over Switch.

Ever since the trolley lines have been spreading out through the country, people have been asking themselves why somebody did not invent a signal system which would not necessitate the stopping of the cars at switches until the conductor got off and changed the semaphore or lights, as the case might be. An Indiana man answered this by designing such a system, the operation of which is shown in the illustration. The invention consists of a signal post like the usual signal post with the signals operated by means of a lever which passes under the tracks. A person wishing to board the car pulls a cord or wire which swings the semaphore arm to a horizontal position. If it be day-time, or lights an electric light, if it be night. As the car passes over the switch, the automatic action drops the semaphore and extinguishes the light or changes its color.

No Stops at Switches.

SMALL ELECTRIC TESTING SET

Directions for Making Contrivance That Is Very Handy in Electrician's Kit.

A small testing set that will take up very little space in an electrician's kit can be made from two lamp-socket adapters. The two adapters are insulated from each other with a fiber or mica washer and all three parts held together with a stove bolt. Solder the flexible wire to the shells of the adapters and cover entirely over with tape, says a writer in Popular

A Testing Outfit.

Mechanics. Using two-candle-power or four-candle-power 110-volt lamps, you will have the smallest test outfit that can be made. The lamps will burn dimly on 220 voltage. If two insulating washers are used and a third wire connected between them to the stove bolt, you will have a 110-volt test outfit from one lamp. Having the middle wire a different color will avoid mistakes.

ELECTRIC FLASHES.

New York city will have a new fire alarm system costing $100,000. A measure has been passed by the Connecticut legislature providing for the compulsory extension of telephone lines.

Snow slides, blizzards and rock slides play such havoc with the telegraph lines in the Yukon country that wireless systems will be substituted where these troubles prevail.

About 160,000 automobiles are now in use in the United States, of which 30,000 are electric. About 60,000 of the total number are owned in New York state.

An electric ferryboat plies across the river Rhine.

A 600-foot wireless telegraph tower in Washington is expected to place the capital in communication with the fleet at a distance of 3,000 miles.

Nearly a hundred electric automobiles for pleasure service are in use in Hartford, Conn.

We have gotten together a large showing of Mink, Black Russian Lynx, Beaver, Persian Lamb, Kolin Sable, Black Fox, and Isabella Fox, besides an immense collection of the more popular priced furs including Jap Mink, American Mink, Isabella and Blue Oppossum, Sable and Black Coney, China Sable, Natural Grey Squirrel, Sable Squirrel, Blue Wolf, White Thibet, Siberian Fox, Black Astrachan, and many others. We cannot give a complete list in detail, but the following descriptions will give fair ideas as to the range of prices, etc.

WHERE THE MONEY COMES FROM

In prosperous times like these, when people of moderate means go automobile and some of the same sort are shaking their heads and wondering how persons who have enjoyed the luxury of owning a horse and prominent users of the automobile.

From various parts of the country people are beginning to ask this question in rural districts and small towns, where the future has acquired great headway. One of these reports says, in answer to the question as to where the money is coming from, "that the money is coming in many cases from the savings that went in times past into modest homes. There is no other place for it to come from, and it means that thousands of persons will be rent-payers instead of home-owners in years to come and that many of them may be forced down in times of dull business from a life of moderate comfort into the class of the permanently poor."

If the savings of men of small salary are going into outlays for recreation and diversion of a temporary character rather than into permanent improvements in home building or the savings bank the people now profiting from the diversion may not be doing themselves any good turn. They are taking hazards with the future, hoping that as needs develop they may be able to increase their incomes to meet the cost of living on an automobile basis. Certainly some will fall by the way. Others may succeed in improving their condition by harder work, better connections and good luck. Nevertheless, there is sure to be a certain percentage of financial wreckage in a general practice which leads to diverting savings from essential to non-essentials.

THE ROCK RIVER ASSOCIATION
 "Janesville" is to entertain a conference within a few days whose deliberations may have a lasting effect upon the city as a whole. The plan to open the Rock river to navigation means much to the business interests of the city. It means cheaper freight rates and the opening of a new field for the products of the local factories. European countries have long recognized the waterways as a means of cheapening the cost of production and America is just alive to the situation. The sooner this is taken up the better results can be obtained. The conference here will be a most interesting one and will bring many prominent men to the city. It is to be hoped that Janesville will be ready to entertain the visitors in proper manner.

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION
 It would not be possible, under a government by commission, to have many of the conditions which exist today in Janesville permitted. This ideal form of government has passed the Utopian stage and now is a reality. Janesville residents, Janesville taxpayers, should investigate the question thoroughly, so as to be ready to understand what it means when it comes up for consideration and adoption, which it surely will.

TIME TO ACT

Now is the time for the business men of Janesville to act and act promptly on the business propositions that are being offered them for their which are worthy of most serious consideration, are willing to locate here. It is time to get busy and find out if Janesville really wants to grow into a big city.

Dr. Cook is being received like a royal person on his lecturing tour. Perhaps this same lecture tour, ahead of Peary, is what is making that gentleman so sore. Cook is getting all the glory and by the time Peary comes along the people will not care to hear the same story repeated.

Minister Crane was already to sail for his post in China when he was stopped by an order from Washington. He went back to get more instructions before starting on his journey again.

The Wright Brothers have politely informed the Chicago people that they are not showmen, but manufacturers of aeroplanes, and refuse to come west to show what they can do as men-fliers.

There is to be a feast of music for Taft in New Orleans, but a few of the southern cooks will have some simple dishes on the side, so he will not get hungry.

That Englishman who can find no market for his luminous paint at home might send a few barrels to New York for the filled high to use in painting the Great White Way.

Speaker Cannon desires he ever received a gift from Tammany, but he may have learned to walk pussy fashion from some of the haves of that camp.

Hearst is going to add the Tammany candidate for Mayor of Greater New York. Well, two years ago Hearst did his best to defeat Tammany and some think he did it.

Tippling over the whitewash pail so that ministers may be thoroughly covered seems to be a favorite bit of pleasure for the Rock River Conference of ministers.

Congressional candidates are becoming as thick as peas in a pod—the only strange feature is that the line is furnishing all now in the field.

Janesville is going to entertain the Rock River Improvement association and the city should put on its best bib and tucker for the event.

A Janesville man raised two crops of potatoes this year. Talk about moving to Arizona to do what you can do at home if you try.

It remains to be seen how large those dust spots from the comet are going to be before we begin covering up the parlor furniture.

Wilbur Wright put the "ferry-boat" owners to shame by the way which he ignored them when he flew up and down the Hudson.

Janesville wants to wake up to the opportunities for good factories that are seeking admission. Delays are often dangerous.

Spain may yet be forced into a real war with Morocco, which will make the present fighting look like a skirmish.

It is impossible for Russia to make much of a fight against the plague after it could not hold its own against the Japs.

Jeffries announces he will fight Johnson April 10 or 11. Why not make it April 1 and then fool the public?

Another Turk is going to try his luck with Gatch, but whether he was born in Norway or South America is not stated.

Taft longed for the Philippines when he reached Frisco and looked across the wide Pacific with longing eyes.

John D. Rockefeller believes it is not only proper but profitable to be honest. Good for John.

Springfield, Illinois, is the scene of the great political gathering this week and the fair is a side issue.

It is nearing the time when the poor misguided hunters will begin shooting each other for deer.

Was Peary first to find the Pole? To Cook shall that be granted? The wave of argument will roll until the two are planted, and each will make his little claim, and all his friends affirm it; now who deserves the wreath of fame? I'm glad it isn't Kermit. Both men have crossed the wastes of ice, both tell a rousing story; so why not stand and shake the dice, to see whose is the glory? Why fuss and wrangle for a year, with voices like ancient hellhounds? The pole was found—that much is clear—but not by Walter Wellman. Let nothing harsh or rough be said; the garb of peace be donned! Chautauqua seasons are ahead; the lecture platform's yawning! Why deal in language truck and tangle, and use such word as "faked"? The pole is found—that is enough—and not by any S. Baker. So let's have peace, whatever the cost, there is no sense in snarling; and if they scrap they'll meet at frost, though each may be a

LUCK OR FLUCK?

H. C. Gibson is his name.

He was a common laborer, with no ambition except to draw his wages and spend the money.

One day a railway train came along and cut off both his legs close to his body. It is intimated, though not proved, that Gibson had looked upon the wire when it was red to such an extent that he failed to see the train when he came up to it.

However that may be, he was discharged from the hospital without money, without friends and without legs.

It was generally supposed that Gibson would be a beggar or become a public charge.

But it soon was proved that if he lacked legs he had plenty of nerve, an asset having which no man is bankrupt.

What do you suppose this H. C. Gibson, penniless, friendless and legless, started to do—sell lead pencils on the street? He started in to learn the bricklayers' trade.

He put a sort of triangle under him in lieu of legs and, rolling along a scaffold by the side of a brick wall, soon was able to cry out to the hod carriers "More mortar!" along with the best of them.

People began to have a sincere respect for what was left of Gibson.

And he on his part began to study the statutes of the state of Virginia. Then he ran—or rolled—for justice of the peace. He was elected, made a successful magistrate and was re-elected.

And now he is on wheels for sheriff of the county.

They say he has a good chance for the office. He has won the regard of the people for his grit and is esteemed as one of the best citizens of the community. The salary and fees are good, and Gibson will be able to go out of office well-fixed financially.

Mr. Maun—

Have you brooded over your hard luck? Have you felt that you were handicapped by lack of education or opportunity?

Contemplate the career of legless Gibson and be ashamed.

Gibson won by pluck and in spite of luck.

Indeed—

His bad luck was a big blessing in disguise. If he had kept his legs he would today be a common laborer—or a bum.

Luck is a misshapen and craven creature, waiting for something to turn up. Pluck is fearless valor with its boots on going out to turn something up.

PRESS COMMENT.

Time Enough Yet.

The Gilbert Times says: "It appears that if Senator La Follette aspires to succeed himself in the United States senate none other in Wisconsin 'cares' for the honor."

There are several elements to be considered. First, say for instance, the legislature for want of argument.

Times Have Changed.

The Neenah Times is much exasperated over Taft's speeches. It says: "It does seem rather funny that the president of this great nation should be compelled to take a tour of the country in order to explain his official actions. 'Old Hickory' never explained and apologized."

Be Prepared, Anyway.

The Janesville Record says: "The comet that is about to swing around the earth is some thirteen millions of miles away. So we still have time to think over the city commission plan for governing Eau Claire."

That's right, prepare your house against the end of the world; but if that comet ever does land on the world Eau Claire will certainly know it.

Let the Light Shine.

The Racine Journal has time to discuss city lighting problems with three candidates for congress and one for governor in its midst: "Our aldermen, some of them, are classic. In a previous board one alderman declared a walk out his way were as dark as the stacks of black cats. At a late meeting another alderman said no more lights were needed than a cat with two tails. The truth is the city is mightily poorly lighted."

Travelling in Pairs.

The Milwaukee Press comments on the fact John Strunke will be lonely no longer as another candidate has appeared. Well, there will be plenty before the real fight comes.

A Good Idea.

The Racine News says: "After all, what's the odds, whether Taft carries the west or the west converts Taft, so long as both are having a rip-snorting picnic together?"

Same Here.

The Madison Democrat suggests: "On the other hand, it must be borne in mind that it is not the wisest aim to show that is the most dangerous, but the amateur thrilled with the spirit of speed."

They Wear Boots in Wausau.

The Wausau Record-Herald says: "A hatless society ball is announced in Chicago as a rarity. In this section most everybody take their hats off when in a ball room. But Chicago is so different."

The Cry of the Wild.

 The Eau Claire Leader wants to know if the tariff has anything to do with the price of food: "For many years the tariff was held up as an asset having which no man is bankrupt. A "Strange" Pair.
 The Green Bay Gazette notes that Cook and Strange are travelling together these pre-political days: "Lieut. Gov. John Strange and S. A. Cook were both at the Beaver Dam fair last week. But this does not mean that there is any particular amount of harmony between them on the important question."

MADE ODD FIND AT EAST SIDE STATION

In Replacing Loose Brick Cornellius Murphy Unclears Remnants of Tin Box and Old Papers.

In removing and replacing some bricks at the junction of the east and north walls of the East Side Station this morning, Assistant Chief Cornellius J. Murphy came upon the badly rusted remnants of a tin box containing a copy of the Janesville Weekly Gazette of Thursday, May 21, 1877. A slip of paper setting forth the fact that the box and paper were placed there by J. W. Bates and John Spencer, fire chief and editor of the Gazette, and stating that work on the then new building was commenced Monday, Aug. 6, 1877, is placed over an article on page 3 which gives a detailed description of the fire alarm telephone installed at Engine House No. 2 under the direction of James Foster, M. A. Morris, John Slightam, and J. W. Bates and acknowledges obligations to S. Clark Burdum for valuable services in arranging the electric wiring of the alarm, "which takes the place of more costly but no better devices."

In another column there is much relating over the fact that Janesville Mutuals beat St. Paul 5 to 0 and lost to Minneapolis by the narrow margin of 1 to 0. Comments from various papers throughout the west, reprinted in this issue, seem to indicate that Janesville was "baseball crazy," and the St. Paul Pioneer Press credits a report that the Mayor of Janesville will issue a special Thanksgiving proclamation. Burr Robbins' circuit route in Indiana and Michigan and various other interesting news gleanings of the day are set forth in attractive fashion.

TO TAKE TEN DAYS TO CONSIDER PLAN

Committee Investigating the Shoes Typewriter Proposition—To Make Offer Shortly.

At the meeting, held this morning at the Gazette office to consider the proposition of making a definite offer to Mr. Louis Shoes of Milwaukee to come to Janesville and establish his proposed typewriter factory, the committee having the matter in charge decided to ask for a delay of ten days and at the end of that time will be in a position to make a definite offer to Mr. Shoes. Meanwhile it is understood he is considering a proposition from Detroit to go there. The prospects for the placing of Mr. Shoes' proposed machines on the market is very bright and the committee have received much encouragement from businessmen relative to the matter.

AUTOMOBILES

BALL PLAYER TO TURN AUTOMOBILE SALESMAN

Ty Cobb To Sell Hupmobile At Atlanta.

Ty Cobb—the famous Ty—will soon turn his attention from the strenuous demands of the motor car, for Ty has clinched the Atlanta, Ga. territory for the Hupmobile, and his first car now awaits his coming in the southern city. Next winter Ty will be a full-fledged automobile dealer. Ty has long had a shade of an ambition to get into the business of selling automobiles. He has naturally been in close touch with the South, and the more the field opened up the more his ambition grew. Playing with the Detroit team and spending much of his time in Detroit, he made a point of looking about among the manufacturers. He saw the Hupmobiles thick on Detroit streets; he saw them everywhere his team played. The upshot was that he applied for the Atlanta territory, and got it.

The interior is so arranged that it is possible to accommodate four injured people at one time, as well as several attendants.

ELMORE WINS IN MUNSEY RUN

Is Awarded Grand Sweepstakes in Washington-Denver Tour.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—The grand sweepstakes prize for the fastest record of any car entered in the Frank J. Elmore car in the Washington-Denver tour. The car, a Munsey reliability contest, was awarded to the Elmore car of Philadelphia, entered by Frank Elmore of this city and driven by his son, Frank Elmore, Jr.

There was not a point registered against the car and the driver of the young Elmore, pitted as he was against some of the best professionals in the country, has been one of the most remarkable things ever seen in any reliability contest.

DATE FOR GOTHAM SHOW SET FOR NEW YEAR'S EVE

Millions in Automobile Display At Mammoth Exhibition.

New York is to open its great automobile show in Grand Central Palace on next New Year's Eve and the following week will be one of the most interesting to the whole eastern motor world. The officials of the American Motor Car Manufacturers' association predict that this auto carnival will be the greatest ever held in America.

Applications for floor space for the event have been coming in rapidly and the management is having trouble satisfying demands.

Makers of foreign cars, manufacturers of American makes and necessary concerns are all equally anxious to require desirable locations in this mammoth exhibition which will assemble several million dollars worth of motor cars and requirements under a single roof.

CROSSING DANGERS.

The list of fatal accidents in motor cars at grade or level crossings on the present touring season is greater than in any of the past years. This is due, not to a multiplication of railroad crossings as compared with former years, but to the greatly increasing number of cars in use. A large percentage of the fatal accidents at these crossings have occurred where the railroad tracks are partly or entirely obscured by trees or shrubs where they approach the road. In all of these cases the usual "railroad crossing" sign is in place but it is but a few feet from the track and useless so far as stopping accidents is concerned. So great has the number of accidents due to this cause become this year that concerted action is necessary; in fact, imperative in many places, in particularly dangerous places something must be done by way of warning the motorists, which warning must be out of the ordinary in order to attract attention. This is a good field in which the American Automobile Association can work, in that with its affiliated clubs all over the country it is in a position to readily collect valuable data on dangerous crossings of this nature, and is further in a position to develop a spirit among its different clubs to act along some uniform line in this respect. In cases where railroad crossings are hidden by trees or shrubs, an effort should be made to have these cut down for a certain number of yards each side of the public highway. This rule might also apply to certain road intersections where cross roads are entirely hidden because of trees or shrubs, and where fatal accidents have occurred on several occasions. It is difficult to determine what is the best method of signal for a bad railway crossing. A few facts relative to such crossings are certain. First, the signals should be some distance from the track, so that if the car is traveling at speed there is time to come to a stop before reaching the railway tracks. It is questionable if the ordinary sign would suffice, but the sign is frequently too far from the roadway. Some a special sign should be devised, and if such, owing to the carelessness of the drivers, is not sufficient, gates should be fitted and a regular gateman paid to operate them. It would be much more important if numerous clubs throughout the country would interest themselves in this work as well as getting the railroads to do their part, than it is for them to waste their time on petty matters which not a few clubs are doing.—Editorial Motor Age.

INFLUENCE OF AUTO OR "BACK TO THE FARM" MOVEMENT.

J. J. Hill's address before the meeting of the Bankers' association of Chicago, is most refreshing, and gives the ordinary business man considerably more confidence in the mental grasp of those who control our financial affairs.

There is one point, however, in regard to which Mr. Hill seems to be misinformed; the favorable influence of the automobile upon the very conditions which he would like to bring about—increased agricultural as compared with urban population.

It looks as though the vast affairs with which he is concerned have compelled him to view the farmer collectively rather than individually, and he seems to be correspondingly unfamiliar with the change the last six or seven years, and the advent of the automobile, has made in the details of the farmer's life. Nor does he seem to recognize the large part which the automobile has, and can be made to play in hastening the extension of his own railroads and in the preliminary work of opening up new territory with that ultimate object in view.

The board principle underlying this is, of course, applicable to any sparsely populated territory. It is the cause of the cause of that sparseness. We venture the opinion that the dissection of the census of 1920 is such as to reveal it, it will be found that the migration during the preceding decade will have been from the city to the country, at least in a large part of the United States. We are not so sure that the census of 1910 might not already reveal a tendency of this kind, provided the concentration of immigration in cities does not entirely obscure the question.

Mr. Hill should recognize the automobile not as a disadvantage to the agriculturist, but as one of the most potent factors cooperating with his own splendid efforts and accomplishments toward agricultural development.—"The Automobile."

GOOD ROADS HELP SALE OF AUTOS.

Cleveland—"Millions for good roads" is the slogan of the middle West and the farther West, according to O. H. Henderson, sales manager of the Baker Motor Vehicle Company, who has just completed a tour of that part of the country. For two months he was visiting the sections where the automobile business is rapidly increasing, and he says: "The good road idea is spreading remarkably. One county in California, alone, has appropriated a million dollars; Seattle is cutting down its hills; cities are constructing boulevards; States are pushing out splendid highways, and improvement is evident everywhere. It is a prophecy which the wise dealers are heeding, and modern, substantial buildings are going up in many places. For a long time business men are securing the places for well-established automobiles, and all of this is caused by the growing demand for better roads.

"I find the sale of electric vehicles increasing immensely. For years of steadily growth have been followed by a sudden desire for this type of automobile. I found electric cars in many places where a year ago there were none. City men are realizing the field which these cars have that in no way conflicts with the one of the gasoline cars, especially for family use or when women wish to operate their own machines. The most remarkable development is the introduction of the gasoline automobile in the farm life of the middle section. Farmers do their traveling in this way and this will be a bonanza year for automobiles.—"The Automobile."

WISE BUYERS ARE CHOOSING AUTOS NOW.

Unprospective Owners Order Early to Avoid Disappointment.

Prospective automobile buyers who are wise, are profiting by the experiences of buyers last Spring and are placing orders now for 1910 delivery, and local dealers are looking forward to an active Fall and Winter, demonstrating the merits of the cars they are handling to the discriminating purchaser.

Buyers have figured out that if they chose their car now and place their order with the local agent, they will be sure of early Spring delivery and a full season's enjoyment of motoring.

All over the country last season, dealers were held back on promised deliveries of cars of popular standard makes because of the overwhelming demand at the last moment. Often cars ordered in March and April were not delivered until June. Many anxious purchasers were paying premiums of $100.00 and more for immediate delivery.

Although the factories have increased their production by thousands in some instances and dealers have contracted for more cars, the situation of 1910 is not impossible in 1910 because of the fact that the number of buyers will be correspondingly larger.

Agents in Janesville have contracted for a liberal number of the respective makes they handle and are in a position to promptly deliver and certain delivery to the man who orders now. The man who is foresighted is studying automobiles, securing his demonstration and choosing his car now. He feels pretty sure that he is acting wisely.

Chicago Motorists To Get Sanction For Western Classic.

Sanction for the 1000 mile rally run of the Chicago Motor club set for Oct. 12-15th is expected to be granted this week by the American Automobile association.

The outlook is that a big list will enter this western classic which is to pass through the three states Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. The run is arousing great interest among Wisconsin motorists and enthusiasts because of the prospective entry of a large number of well-known cars who will be called upon to prove their motto on the stubborn Wisconsin hills.

"The Fabcar already has been placed in nomination. Besides this it is stated there will be entries forthcoming from the White, Moon, Oakland, National, Moline, Marmon, Oldsmobile, Pope-Hartford, Overland, Premier, Pierce-Arrow and Chalmers of Detroit.

Of these the Premier, Pierce-Arrow and Franklin clinched in the 1,000 mile Chicago Motor Club reliability test last year, so that they are almost certain to try again. It is stated that the White, National, Moline, Oldsmobile and Premier will have two entries each, and maybe the Chalmers. A. M. Robbins is putting in two cars from the Centre company—a Moon and an Oakland.

INDUSTRY AND MECHANICS

USE OF CONCRETE PIPING.

Material is Now Being Used for Buildings of All Kinds, Large and Small.

While iron and steel men insist that this is an age of steel, and electric engineers hold it is the electric age, concrete builders maintain that it is also the concrete age, and everyone will agree that while concrete has been utilized for centuries past, it has never been so universally employed as at present. Buildings of all kinds, large and small, vessels, railroad ties, pavements, mine shafts, walls, breakwaters, piers, piers, water and sewer pipe, tanks and wells, as well as many other kinds of construction are now being made of concrete.

At Waukegan, Ill., a line of 5,000 feet of such pipe is being laid. The diameter of the pipe is 48 inches. More than 1,000 feet of pipe 66 inches in diameter has been laid at Atlantic City, and in still another city a line of pipe 72 inches in diameter has been completed for a distance of 4,000 feet. Hydro-electric power plants are also using reinforced concrete pipe.

Talks on Snake Culture

No. 23—The Morning Headache

The meanest headache in the world is the one that operates a merry-go-round in your dome of thought the last. The worst of it is that there is no sympathy for him anywhere. If he has an old-fashioned headache, that didn't owe its origin to the tall black bottle, everybody feels sorry for him; and the neighbors milk the cow and do the chores for him, and feed him jam and cookies, and the minister drops around and jolies him into a good humor, and the editor of the local newspaper interviews him, and prints his picture, and nominates him for county supervisor. But when the man with the booze headache tells a friend what is hurting him, the friend either laughs at him, and tells him to cut something out, or borrows him with a lot of good advice, or says something irrelevant touching the hair of a dog. And since a booze headache is siller than a peach-basket hat, what's the use of wearing one?

ART OF CURRYCOMBING HORSE

Newly Invented Device Has Cleaning
Attachment, Keeping Comb
Free of Dirt.

The process of currycombing a horse is an art, and one not to be learned at first attempt; but even a novice, equipped with the currycomb designed by an Ohio man will find the job easier than an expert will find it who uses the old-style comb. This new device bases its advantage in the fact that it has a cleaning attachment by means of which the comb may be kept clear of dirt as the work goes on. This consists of a hammer head so adjusted at the edge of the comb that a slight jar sets it in vibration and the particles of dirt are shaken out. Across the back of the instrument are wires so bent as to engage the hammer head and hold it loosely in position. The holder needs only to strike the wires against the side of a stall and the hammer head is set into vibration. Unless a currycomb is kept clean it cannot be used effectively, as the corrugations become clogged and it passes over the horse's hide without any result.

The ornament of a house is the friends who frequent it. There is no greater event in life than the appearance of new persons about our hearth, except it be the progress of the character which draws them. Mongolian may make new record in aerial flights.
Fung Joe Guey at work in his 8x10 laboratory in Oakland, Chinatown.

Oakland, Cal.—Success has at last crowned the efforts of the only Mongolian airship builder on record to date. His airship flew for a period of over 20 minutes, demonstrating beyond the question of a doubt that he has succeeded after years of hard labor. True, his airship dropped to the ground, slightly damaging it, at the end of this time but that is nothing more than has happened to other successful airship builders.

The demonstration took place in the Piedmont hills last week before a small crowd of interested friends and the flight was entirely satisfactory.

It has always been charged against the Japanese and Chinese that they lack the inventor's initiative, claiming they were the most expert copyists in the world, but that they possessed little or no inventive ability. Guey's success seems to contradict this theory. He has followed the biplane construction so popular among American inventors and while he has to some extent followed the lines of the Wright brothers' and Curtiss' planes his airship possesses many new and striking features.

This Chinese aviator has made a reputation during the last few years as a mechanic and inventor. He is back by wealthy Chinese merchants of San Francisco, who want him to develop electrical power for them in China and open the flower kingdom to modern invention. He was ready to start for the moment, with ample capital several months ago, but could not wait himself away from his airship a model of which he had been laboring over for years. He wanted to fly first, and then he said, he was ready to introduce electrical power into China. His airship is now built and the motor is being put in it. The machine resembles that of the Wright brothers, but has improved facilities for landing, according to the inventor. Fung Joe Guey learned what he knows of mechanics and electricity by working for eight years in electrical shops and spending his nights pouring over books and in experiments. His books he had to translate first from English into Chinese by means of a dictionary before he could make progress with them. He seldom goes to bed before 3 o'clock in the morning. His advances in science have been made at the cost of remarkable labor and perseverance. He has invented many improvements in electrical motors, constructing the working models himself, and constructed and put in operation in his little room in Chinatown a perfect wireless telegraph machine. All of his studies and experiments for many months have been carried on in a room that is not 10 feet long and less than 8 feet wide, in which he sleeps as well.

He came to the notice of the Oakland police more than a year ago by exposing a wireless telephone company that was composed of sharpers. Being merely a Chinese, he was permitted to investigate the machine and soon found that it was a fraud. He told the police and arrests followed, as the promoters had sold stock on the representation that they had a telephone that worked without wires, when such was not the case. Great secrecy has surrounded the making of Fung Joe Guey's airship. It was removed to the Piedmont hills a few days ago for the finishing touches. The inventor declares that he will fly as well as the aviators who have made records for themselves.

Things You Should Buy in Janesville and Why

Here are many reminders of things you should "buy in Janesville"—not simply because they are made in Janesville, but because you will find it to your advantage to buy them here. Many things that you buy elsewhere could be bought here at less money.

Janesville goods go all over the United States, sold upon their merits in competition with others, and if this is possible, dealers who live close by, with saving in freight, saving in time necessary for orders to be received, and shipped, have greater reason for buying Janesville made goods than those who live distant.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"I am absolutely discouraged. I don't feel as if I'd ever be happy again," said my little friend as she finished her tale of woe—or rather of innumerable woes.

I closed my eyes and thought a minute. "It is just five months and three days ago that you said that before," I reminded her, "and after things got straightened out weren't you really quite happy?"

"Yes, but this is so much worse," she said.

"Worse because it's now," I answered. "But you wait until next week and tell me if things won't have straightened out just as they did before."

The next week I saw her and she was so happy that she had completely forgotten she had even been otherwise.

And yet next time I know she'll say, "I don't feel as if I could ever be happy again."

Because she is an exceptionally stupid girl? No, because she's just like most of us.

Last time the black mood came to you—as it comes to most of us—and you thought your friends were all going back on you and you'd lost your grip on your little or big—slim and mistakes were finding you out, didn't you say, "Things won't ever come straight again."

And despite the fact that they did come straight—maybe straighter than they ever had been before—the next time the black mood comes aren't you going to say the same thing again?

The pleasant lesson that things always DO come straight that somehow or other one always IS happy again, seems to be a surprisingly hard one for most of us to learn.

Experience continually thrusts this key to happiness into our hands and most of us stupidly refuse to take it.

I know a girl who says she likes to get red blue because she knows that when she gets over it she will be correspondingly happy. Isn't it so with you?

Then why not comfort yourself by remembering that the next time you're down in the depths?

Here is a suggestion that a philosopher of the they-always-do-come-out-right school makes.

The next time you have a blue fit and get over it, before you have had time to forget it, write down in your note book or on a slip of paper something like this:

"I was just as blue as I ever shall be again. Absolutely everything went wrong. I was sure I would never get over it, but I did and now I am just as happy as I ever was."

The next time you get down in the depths, take out your note book or your slip of paper and read this affidavit over carefully.

You may doubt my word in the matter but you can't very well doubt your own.

Ruth Cameron

Matinee of Flannel

An odd but pretty and simple matinee is shown above. It was made of the softest of pale blue flannel, with ruffles of blue silk, and though simple and plain, is delectable itself with the pretty finish of hand embroidery done in pale blue silk. The embroidery appears around the bottom of the short waist, the wide soft collar, the bottom of the garment and around the hand. A knot of blue ribbon finishes the front and ruffles of the silk edge the collar and bottom of the neck. Having the long sleeves and being fashioned of flannel, this would prove an exceedingly "comfy" little sack for cold days.

GREAT BRITAIN TO AID CASTRO.

Reported That the Venezuelan Former President Will Head Revolution.

Willemstad, Curacao, Oct. 6.—According to the latest reports received here from Venezuela, that republic is in a condition of considerable political unrest. A number of prominent men have been arrested recently and imprisoned in the fortress of San Carlos, near Maracaibo. A story is current in Venezuela to the effect that Great Britain may aid a revolutionary movement headed by Castro because of the refusal last month of the Venezuelan government to abolish the differential duty collected on goods sent into the republic from West Indian points, and has found certain evidence with the lower classes.

Theodore Hauser, the German who was expelled from Venezuela last July on the charge of being a secret agent of Castro, is still here.

Marquise Dies Aboard Ship.

New York, Oct. 6.—Marquise Mary des Montiers-Meriville, a passenger on the steamer Kronprinzessin Esala, died aboard that ship just before the vessel reached quarantine. Death was due to bright's disease. The marquise, who was 46 years old, before her marriage was Miss May Caldwell of Louisville, Ky., and New York city, and prominent socially here and in the south. As Miss Caldwell, the marquise gave to the Catholic university at Washington, prior to her withdrawal from the Catholic church in 1905, more than $300,000, and one of the main buildings was named Caldwell hall in her honor.

Leopoldville, Belgian Congo, Oct. 6.—Rev. W. H. Sheppard, an American missionary, was acquitted of the charges of libel brought against him by one of the Congo concession companies which has a monopoly of rubber gathering in the Kasai region.

Two American missionaries, W. H. Sheppard and Rev. William Morrison, were charged with "calumnious dissemination" and libel by the concession company. The suit was based on an article which appeared in the Kasai Herald. The charges against Mr. Morrison, however, were withdrawn. The company sought to recover $5,000 from Mr. Sheppard.

Sunday Schools Decrease.

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 6.—That there are more than a thousand less Congregational Sunday school children in Wisconsin than there were ten years ago, despite the growth in population of more than one million within the same period, was reported to the convention of the Wisconsin Congregational association here. Forty-eight Congregational churches in the state failed to report Sunday school departments at all for the fiscal year. A report by Registrar Miner of Milwaukee showed that there are 467,000 children in Wisconsin not affiliated with any Sunday schools. An investigation of conditions was ordered by the convention.

THE NEW STATE SONG

"The Star of Wisconsin." Written by Janesville Lady Adopted as State
Song of the D. A. R.

Seventeen of the twenty-two chapters in Wisconsin are represented at the thirteenth annual state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution which convened at Wausau yesterday and the attendance is the largest seen at a state convention. State Regent Mrs. Ogden H. Fethers, Janesville, presiding. Mrs. Edward Ferguson, Milwaukee, presented a memorial to the late Mrs. Janice Sidney Peck of that city, organizer of the Milwaukee chapter and through whose efforts the society first secured a substantial foothold in Wisconsin. A tribute to Mrs. Peck was also paid in the annual address of the State Regent, Mrs. Fethers.

At the last state conference a request was made to have original songs presented this year from which a state song to be selected. The only one presented was "The Star of Wisconsin," both the words and music being written by Mrs. Fethers. The song was sung at the afternoon session by Mrs. Ione Gove-Hawley of Wausau. Mrs. Katolka Hawley playing her accompaniment and it was most enthusiastically received. A vote was taken Wednesday morning on its adoption as the official song. Milwaukee having been the first city to extend an invitation for next year's conference there is little doubt but that it will be selected tomorrow. Reports of the state secretary, Miss Carrie B. Smith, Fort Atkinson and the state treasurer, Mrs. George F. Gilkey, Oshkosh, showed a substantial growth of the society the past year. New chapters have been organized at Shullsburg and Grand Rapids. It was reported that $120 had been contributed to the Continental hall fund.

The conference convened at 11 o'clock in impressive manner with the delegates and visitors standing and singing "America" with Mrs. Ione Gove-Hawley of Wausau leading. Following the invocation by Mrs. John H. Hovitt the address of welcome was given by Mrs. Helen E. Tichenor, regent of the Wausau Continental chapter, Miss Kathleen C. Cole, Fort Atkinson, responding.

Last night the visitors were entertained at a reception and musicale at Rothaven, the program being rendered by Frank J. Thompson, Carl Waterman, Mrs. E. Ward Bladell, Milwaukee; Mrs. Edna Butler Babcock, Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mrs. Ione Gove-Hawley.

Officers will be elected Thursday morning after which the visitors will be taken on an automobile ride about the city followed by a banquet at the Congregational church.

PLEASANT SURPRISE GIVEN

MISS CRALL SATURDAY

Their East Center Friends Called on Them and Helped Them Keep Anniversary of Birth.

East Center, Oct. 4.—On last Saturday afternoon about twenty young lady friends of Misses Maud and Effie Crall gave them a genuine surprise to round them of their birthday. A good time was enjoyed by all present and a delicious supper was served at five o'clock. Many handsome presents were received by the ladies and all joined in wishing them many more happy birthdays.

CHILDREN SHOWED IT

Effect of Their Warm Drink in the Morning.

"A year ago I was a wreck from coffee drinking and was on the point of giving up my position in the school room because of nervousness. I was telling a friend about it and she said, 'We drink nothing at meal time but Postum, and it is such a comfort to have something we can enjoy drinking with the children.'"

I was astonished that she would allow the children to drink my kind of coffee, but she said Postum was the most healthful drink in the world for children as well as for older ones, and that the condition of both the children and adults showed that to be a fact.

"My first trial was a failure. The cook boiled it four or five minutes and it tasted so flat that I was in despair but determined to give it one more trial. This time we followed the directions and boiled it fifteen minutes after the boiling began. It was a decided success and I was completely won by its rich delicious flavor. In a short time I noticed a decided improvement in my condition and kept growing better and better month after month, until now I am perfectly healthy, and do my work in the school room with ease and pleasure. I would not return to the nerve-destroying regular coffee for any money."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, October 6, 1890.—Serious Accident.—What a tremendous penalty the community and individuals pay for the use of whiskey and the toleration of its abuse. About six o'clock last evening a man from Clinton who had imbibed freely of the regular Janesville pizen, concluded to try the speed of his horse over the Nicholson pavement. He put the lash to the animal and he responded handsomely, going at a rattling pace with things pretty much his own way, on account of the top heavy condition of his driver. At the Jordan house the driver turned on to High street but the man who ought to have gone along with it kept on straight ahead and did not stop until his head and shoulders came in contact with the pavement. The injured man was taken up insensible and carried to the hospital.

Injured is getting along nicely. Mrs. Flora Campbell of Ohio and Miss Hattie Dean of Janesville, called on Center friends last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Will Brooks of Evansville spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Will Dixon.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Wright of Janesville spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis.

Miss Edith Hunko spent Friday night with Frances Crall.

The Misses Mary and Marguerite Hunko and Mr. Henry Hunko and Mr. Henry Menchow spent Sunday at the home of Fred Hunko.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Harrison of California and Mr. Will Babcock of Kansas are visiting at the home of J. H. Fisher.

Mrs. Herman Wilkie who has been quite sick is improving.

Word was received by relatives here of the death of Elmer Babcock of East Troy.

Mr. S. L. Crall and Miss Maud Crall and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fisher attended the funeral which was held Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols of Porter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Roberts.

Ed. Klesow has been doing road work with his engine.

Although the full dinner-pail may be a fine emblem for the G. O. P. it is a poor thing to have lying loose around the stump, as Switch-engine O'Grady found out to his sorrow. Whether it was a hungry "bo" or a brakeman plating for home-cooking who stole the "grawler" is unknown, but whoever it was it is the victim's private opinion that the borrower might at least have had the decency to return the empty pail as that is highly indigestible.

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Engineer, Walworth and Fireman Setzer took 530 this morning.

Fireman Walton is on the switch-engine today with Engineer Callahan.

Fireman Kottmarch went out on 105 this morning with Engineer Williams.

PRESIDENT TAFT HAS BUSY DAY.

Visits Three Cities—Delivers Several

Speeches—Reviews Children.

San Francisco, Oct. 6.—President Taft left the city at eight o'clock this morning for the Yosemite valley. His day here was a most busy one. He spent the entire forenoon in the offices of Oakland and Berkeley, and was welcomed to San Francisco in the afternoon by a throng which lined the walks in some places ten deep along a line of march extending over nearly three miles of the principal streets. The school children of this city, Oakland and Berkeley gave their joyful cheers for the president, and, as in most of the other cities Mr. Taft has visited on this trip, were one of the prominent features of his reception.

At Berkeley the president made a brief address at the Greek theater, in which he declared that ideals in popular government were a splendid thing to cultivate, but that the man at the helm must be content with compromise, must accept his responsibilities and "play the game," whether he succeeded in bringing the people to follow him, or had to follow the people.

From Berkeley the president went to Oakland, and made an address to an out-door throng of several thousands. Crossing the bay on the revenue cutter Golden Gate and eating luncheon during the trip, the president upon his arrival in San Francisco was taken for a three-mile carriage ride.

Next, the president laid the cornerstone of the new Young Men's Christian association building and later was the guest of honor at a reception at the Union League club.

Save Your Linoleum

Or Oil-Cloth

Would you live in an unpalatial house? No, or course you wouldn't.

It's just as foolish not to paint the woodwork of a new verandah, as it is to use your linoleum or oil cloth on your floor without applying Linoleum Lustre at once.

At little expense it will keep floor covering looking new for years, will preserve coloring and pattern and strengthen the entire fabric. It will make half worn out linoleum or oil cloth look like new, restoring the coloring and SAVING it from wearing away.

Don't get Linoleum Lustre confused with floor varnish and other finishes. It is flexible, quick drying and glossy, yet not sticky—able to resist the roughest wear. It mops easily. A child can apply it.

NO INDIGESTION OR

STOMACH DISORDER

Stops Gas, Fermentation and Stomach Headache in About Five Minutes.

Why not get some now—this moment, and forever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and indigestion? A distended stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good old, then take Pope's Diapiesin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pope's Diapiesin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will induce the most obstinate cases of indigestion and upset stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and, besides, one single dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapiesin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to take a little Diapiesin. Tell your druggist that you want Pope's Diapiesin, because you want to become thoroughly cured this time.

Remember! If your stomach feels out-of-order and uncomfortable now you can get relief in five minutes.

Master's Gentle Hint.
The story goes that a pretty young lady once played in class a ball by Chaplin in a very unbecoming way. Last walked up and down the room excitedly murmuring: "Hollger Blum! Hollger Blum!" (the equivalent, apparently, of "Great Scott!") But when she had finished she went up to her in a most friendly manner, laid his hand upon her head as if in benediction, and said, gently: "My dear child, marry soon. Good-by!"

His One Mistake.

F OUBT politicians on the street car were talking about the Taff administration, and after ten minutes' conversation they agreed that up to date the President had made no mistake. The only other passenger seeming to have any particular interest in the conversation was a rather elderly man, with a sorrowful eye. He was a careful listener, and as one of the politicians got off he was followed to the sidewalk and accosted with: "I heard all that you men said about Taff."
"You" was the reply.
"You had it pretty high right."
"Yes."
"He has made just one mistake since he has been President, and I thought you ought to know it."
"I shall be glad to. What do you refer to?"
"I live at Chicago's Corner. I wanted to be postmaster there, but Mr. Taff appointed Alvin Karpis in my stead. Just one mistake, after, but it's going to cost him a second term! So long air."
JOE KERR.
